WEDNESDA EVENING, AUG 19, 1896

OWNEY ON HIS TRAVELS.

The Famens Albany Postoffice Dog and His Voyage to China. On Aug. 19, 1895, Owney was photographed, walked up the gangplank of the good ship Victoria of the N. P. S. S. Co. and was welcomed by Captain Panton, whose guest he was to be. Owney had his credentials in a traveling bag, and he carried also his blanket, brush and comb, his metal harness for full dress and letters of introduction to the postal authorities of the world. As the steamer backed out from the dock hundreds of people waved their hands and wished Owney a safe and prosperous voyage, crew, and after an uneventful voyage he arrived at Yokohama on Oct. 3. Here his baggage was examined with no little curiosity by the officials, as no dignitary had before entered Japan who owned so many decorations that he was obliged to carry them in a bag.

upon Owney and presented him with a passport bearing the seal of the mikado. It was addressed to the American dog traveler, and in very flowery language extended to him the freedom of the interior country. There were some stipulations, which | in all probability Owney would have agreed to had he made the trip. Some were as follows: "The bearer is expressly cautioned to observe in every particular the directions of the Japanese government printed in Japanese characters on the back of the passport, an English translation of which is given herewith, and he is expected and required to conduct himself in an orderly and conciliatory manner toward the Japanese authorities and people." The passport also forbade him to "attend a fire on horseback," warned him not to write "on temples, shrines or walls," and politely requested him not to "drive too fast on narrow

There was no time for side trips, and, after meeting many officials, Owney sailed from Yokohama, arriving at Kobi on Oct. 9, where he received medals and a new passport from the emperor. He was at Maji Oct. 19. Shanghai Oct. 26 and Fuchan Oct. 31, where also he received more medals and was the subject of an ovation. His fame had preceded him, and at the latter port he received an invitation to visit the U. S. S. S. Detroit, which was lying in the harbor. One day the marine gangway of this fine man-of-war was astonished to see a bemedaled, shaggy dog come up the ladder, wagging his tail and showing all the delight that a patriotic Yankee should at the sight in foreign lands of the stars and stripes. The marine almost laughed as Owney stepped aboard and ran up to the officer of the deck as though he had known him all his life.—Charles Frederick Holder in St. Nicholas.

garded as the start of the Oxford movement.

Dr. Fisher was elected to a Buckyears, and the discipline of the college had become considerably relaxed under his rule, which lasted for age of 100. The old fellows of Magdalen were a jolly, whist playing, guzzling, port wine drinking set. It election that one of the fellows died drunk in the night in his college rooms. Dr. Fisher was a good classical scholar of the old school, but country pursuits were the delight of his life, particularly trout fishing, and he was an excellent shot and a keen naturalist and botanist .- Lon-
